

Telos Systems Expands European Sales Team

June 22, 2009, Cleveland Ohio, USA

Telos Systems is proud to announce the appointment of Karl Briedis to the new position of European Sales Director, underscoring Telos' ongoing international growth and commitment to its customer base.

Karl, who has over a decade of professional audio experience, will be based in Riga, Latvia to best serve Telos' European clients. His formal education includes Marketing as well as Recording and Production Engineering. He has enjoyed positions at several large commercial audio / video companies.

"Karl is ready to work with our dealers and clients across Europe," Reports Kirk Harnack, Director of International Business Development for Telos Systems. "He's on-board to connect dealers and their clients with our award-winning technology. Telos, Omnia, and Axia are all about helping broadcasters to work more efficiently, sound better, and improve their bottom lines."

Says Karl, "Not only are Telos, Omnia and Axia admired around the world as technology leaders, the company's commitment to 24/7/365 support illustrates just how much they value their clients. I'm very excited to be working with such an outstanding organization"

In addition to working the family land in Latvia, Karl has been known to restore and customize guitars and drums as well as pick up the fishing pole from time to time. He can be reached at karl@telos-systems.com .
